

SERVICE LEARNING COURSE DESIGNATION FORM

Criteria: For a course to receive an “SL” designation, the service learning experience must:

1. Enhance the course learning outcomes through application of course content.
2. Be clearly outlined in the course syllabus and be an expressed goal in at least one learning outcome.
3. Involve experience with a community-based organization* during which the students work to meet needs identified in conjunction with the community organization.
4. Involve at least 10 hours of service experience for a 3 credit hour course (15-20 hours are optimal based on research).
5. Involve continuous, challenging, connected, and contextualized reflection on the experience and learning (pre-service, during service, and post-service).

*A community-based organization is defined as:

- Non-Profit Agencies (shelters, food banks, advocacy groups)
- Educational Institutions (schools, daycare centers, correctional facilities)
- Groups of people who share a common identity related to culture, economics, religion, age, health, etc. (churches, youth programs)
- For-Profit Agencies only when the primary purpose is providing a significant public service (hospitals, nursing homes)

Process: A faculty member seeking an “SL” designation for a course will need to submit the following information to Mike Cinson (mcinson@walsh.edu) page 2:

1. Introduction: A brief description of how service fits with the course outcomes.
2. Placement: Desired site, or experience if specific site is not known, with which the students will work.
3. Service Component: A brief explanation of the desired service component (what the students will do, how many hours per month/semester, or product expected)
4. Service Evaluation: A brief explanation of how the faculty member will integrate the service learning into the course (discussion, journals, projects, presentations, research, etc) and how the learning, through service, will be graded.

This is not intended to be an exhaustive exercise but a way to demonstrate the true integration of service learning into the course. The document need not be over 1 page and may include sections directly from the syllabus. Feel free to use bullets versus complete sentences when appropriate.
