Counseling and Human Development
Mental Health Counseling Course Prospectus

At the conclusion of each student's first semester in the Counseling and Human Development Program, he or she must complete a "Course Prospectus" with his or her advisor and submit a signed copy of the prospectus to the Graduate Secretary and advisor. The purpose of the prospectus is to assist students in planning a course of study, to ensure timely and full completion of classes in preparation for Practicum and Internship, and to help the CHD program assess where students are in their course of study and what they need. Students may not change the proposed sequence of classes unless given approval by their advisor. Please note, students are ultimately responsible for ensuring that they complete all necessary courses, prerequisites, and program requirements. When planning your course sequence, remember that, in general, lower numbered courses should be taken before higher numbered courses. Also, please keep in mind that most financial aid requires enrollment of at least 6 credit hours per semester.
