STELIC UPDATES

Below is a tentative schedule highlighting the next steps for the Stellic rollout! Right now, IT and the Office of the Registrar are working with Stellic to get everything ready. As we move closer to the Fall 2026 launch, we'll be offering training opportunities to help everyone get comfortable with the new system.

- Data migration begins in February.
- Stellic will be on-campus April 7 to 9 to provide training for the Office of the Registrar.
- The Office of the Registrar will set up training labs for faculty and advisors. Dates are to be decided and sign ups will be sent out.
- We plan to be live August 1.

Paving the Way for a Successful Stellic Launch

Right now we are paving the way for a successful Stellic launch and your help is critical.

Accurate data is critical to a successful rollout. Stellic pulls information directly from course schedules and curriculum sheets. That means the details you review and update now directly affect how well the platform will function for students, faculty, and advisors. When information is correct:

- *Students see the right courses and degree requirements in Stellic.
- *Advising tools work as intended, reducing confusion and errors.
- *The overall implementation process runs more smoothly for everyone.

We recognize there will be a few bumps along the way, but accurate and consistent data will help minimize those issues. Thank you for your attention to detail and for supporting this important transition. Your efforts make a real difference in helping Stellic serve our campus effectively.

Modality Updates

Modality updates for the Summer 2026 and Fall 2026 terms are due by Friday, February 13. Schedule edits for Spring 2027 will be distributed in March. When reviewing Spring 2027 schedules, please also verify and update the course type and instructional method as needed.
