

Office of the Registrar

Dear Faculty and Staff,

Stellic Is Now Available

We are pleased to announce that Stellic, our new degree planning platform, is now available to all faculty and staff academic advisors. The platform will be live for students on Monday, August 24th.

Advisors can access Stellic through the Walsh Portal or the CAV Center. This new platform will help advisors support students in identifying future coursework, monitoring academic progress toward graduation, and exploring alternative major pathways—all in one location. Students will be instructed to connect with their academic advisor to discuss any misalignments that arise during the transition from paper-based planning to the Stellic system.

A dedicated Stellic webpage is now available and includes information and resources to help advisors get started. Advisors are also encouraged to explore the interactive demo, which provides a step-by-step walkthrough of the platform
